Welcome

We are thrilled to welcome you to Lexington for the 43rd annual meeting of the Appalachian Studies Association (#AppalachianUnderstories)! For the first time ever, we gather at the University of Kentucky (UK), the Commonwealth’s flagship university. UK is, and for decades has been, a vital center of teaching, research, and service for our beloved region. It has a well-earned and long-standing reputation for leadership in Appalachian studies. Key supporters of the work beneath this reputation, including the UK Appalachian Center, the Graduate Appalachian Research Community, and the College of Arts and Sciences are among our on-campus hosts. Beyond-campus hosts include two inspiring Kentucky-based service organizations with deep Appalachian roots, Appalshop and LiKEN (Livelihoods Knowledge Exchange Network). The 2020 conference—like ASA itself—grows from the collaborative work of academics and activists. We also are lucky to be able to call UK’s new Gatton Student Center our core ASA location, with several other wonderful sites adding to a beautiful scene for learning and growing.

As always, a team of dedicated volunteers has worked for three years to prepare this gathering. Taking inspiration from the magnificent native forests that grace and sustain our region, we have themed the 2020 ASA conference “Appalachian Understories: Growing Hope and Resilience from Commonwealth to Global Commons.” For the first time in ASA history, our conference theme invites us to closely consider the “understories” of the woods themselves. We human Appalachians are fortunate to have the world’s richest temperate forests rooted in our region. Panels, workshops, and more help us celebrate these native forests’ beauty, cultural vitality, biodiversity, and healing power. Mary Hufford, Ruby Daniels, and Tommy Cabe present “Mixed Mesophytic Nation: Pathways to Citizenship,” a plenary recognizing that forest understories, though easily overlooked, are places of beauty and strength.

The 2020 conference also focuses on a range of human “understories.” Here we work to help amplify the many Appalachian voices that are too often obscured. The 2020 gathering highlights black Appalachians; health and healing; women, gender, and sexuality; and hope spots. A plenary on Black Appalachian women, featuring Karida Brown, Ash-Lee Woodard Henderson, Crystal Wilkinson, and Kelley Navies, showcases work in various areas, from film and literature to museums and social justice organizations.

We also feature a variety of “understory” telling methods, including filmmaking, oral history, literature, music, photography, performance, and other art forms. And there’s more! We tap UK’s many intellectual and cultural riches. Here’s a sample: AfriLachian poetry, cutting-edge medical research, globally recognized oral history collections, and the largest Appalachian archives on earth. We congratulate Appalshop on its 50th birthday! We celebrate the Whitesburg studio’s half-century of visionary “understories” telling through film, media, education, theater, music, and other arts. In the hope spots plenary, Courtney Lewis, Alex Gibson, Betsy Taylor, Wayne Riley, Kathryn Engle, Alyssa Dyer, Grace Moses, Madison Mooney,
The program committee designed ASA 2020 with an eye not only to important “understories” but also to shared experiences and connections among conference strands. Instead of a keynote/plenary model we opted for a series of plenaries, each speaking to the “Appalachian Understories” theme and, as much as possible, to each other. No other sessions have been scheduled during the plenaries, and we invite everyone to attend each. We hope these common experiences will yield rich fruit in many forms, including ongoing conversations, collaborations, and creative projects across themes.

UK is one of only a handful of “R1” (meaning doctoral universities with very high research activity) universities serving the Appalachian region. Our medical campus is a world-class institution, and we hope to highlight this and other important health and healing themes in the plenary that includes Keisa Fallin-Bennet, Joy Gritton, Danielle King, Ouita Michel, and F. Douglas Scutchfield.

We also hope everyone is able to attend the opening* and closing ceremonies, a program innovation this year designed to further explore “Appalachian Understories,” celebrate our annual gathering, and provide another set of rich common experiences.

We would like to thank the ASA staff and all presenters. You make this event exactly what it is. A special thanks is needed for the program committee, conference sponsors, abstract reviewers, volunteers, and all of our community supporters. You make this event possible.

FOOD & DRINK

Lexington is becoming a foodie’s favorite with down-home dining and upscale eateries to suit all tastes. A few favorites near campus and downtown are listed below (see https://www.visitlex.com/ for more selections).

In the Gatton Student Center
There are several fast food options in the Gatton Student Center, primarily on the first floor. Starbucks is also available in the UK Barnes and Noble Bookstore. Conference attendees may also get a discount with their nametags at the UK Champions Kitchen Food Court, located on the first floor of the Gatton Student Center.

Down the Street from Campus
Girls Girls Girls Burritos: Local musicians turned restauranteurs... Burritos, bowls, and tacos. From the long list of toppings that includes tater tots, pickled red onions, charred jalapeno ranch and pink cabbage slaw, to the high-quality protein options, such as pork belly or crispy tofu...you can build the meal of your dreams here!
First-time attendees are invited to wear ribbons, which are available at registration. Regular attendees are encouraged to seek out our new members and make them feel welcome.

Pronoun Stickers
ASA has pronoun stickers available at the registration table and in the Dinkle-Mas Suite, Office of LGBTQ* Resources 250. The organization wishes to thank Appalshop for this generous donation.

Certification of Participation by Teachers for Professional Development
Pre-K-12 teachers participating in the conference can have their attendance documented for possible professional development units. Teachers will need to obtain an attendance sheet from the registration desk, identify the convener in each session they attend, and have him/her sign the sheet. At the conclusion of the conference, teachers must submit their attendance sheet to the registration desk and after all hours are tallied they will be able to obtain a signed Appalachian Studies Association certificate, verifying their attendance and the number of participation hours. It is the responsibility of the teachers to confirm with their respective school districts that their conference participation will count toward professional development units. You must be a paid conference attendee to receive the certificate.

Exhibit Area
Visit the Exhibit Area located in the Social Staircase and the Ballroom areas of the Gatton Student Center, where publishers will display recent Appalachian books and other writings. A variety of programs and organizations will have displays and information available about their activities and services. The Exhibit Area is open throughout the conference. Check the conference schedule for times. Please plan to make several visits.

Supporting Scholarships Through the Annual Silent Auction
Since Howard Dorgan launched the silent auction in the late 1990s, this annual fundraiser has supported student and community-member participation at ASA conferences through annual scholarships. Please check-in all donations at the auction as early as possible so that the bidding wars can begin. The silent auction will run from 8:00am-5:00pm on Friday, March 13, 2020, and from 8:00am-5:30pm on Saturday, March 14, 2020, in the Senate Chamber in Gatton Student Center 268. All items will be sold to the highest bidder upon Saturday evening’s 5:30pm closing. Please plan to be present at the end of the auction with cash or checks for your items. Items must be picked up no later than 6:30pm on Saturday. We look forward to seeing you at this fantastic event!
TECHNOLOGY (PRESENTATIONS, WI-FI, SOCIAL MEDIA, PRINTING/PHOTOCOPYING)

Technology for Presenters: All classroom spaces are equipped with computers, projectors, and internet access. It is recommended for presenters to bring a thumb drive with their presentation file saved as a back-up. Some classrooms are equipped with wireless connection to enable presentations via your own laptop however, it is recommended you bring an HDMI cord just in case. Mac users should bring their own adapter to convert to HDMI. If you have a need for a CD-Rom drive, please contact the Program Chair, Jennifer Cramer, jennifer.cramer@uky.edu, before the conference.

Wi-Fi Access: UK has eduroam, so if your university uses eduroam, you should connect automatically. Login information for UK’s guest network is on the website and available at registration.

Social Media: Please use #AppalachianUnderstories on all your social media postings about the conference. In addition, use #appalshop50th; #asahopespots; #blackappalachians; #forestcommons; #gender&sexuality; #health&healing to share experiences about the conference subthemes.

Printing and Photocopying: Public printing on campus is not recommended. You can find information here: https://www.uky.edu/studentprt/Info#Q1. Conference attendees who need to print should ask for help at the registration desk or seek out local Lexington print services.

ACCESSIBILITY AND INCLUSION

The primary venue for the conference is the Gatton Student Center. Recently completely renovated and reconstructed, this centrally-located campus hub offers numerous amenities, including free Wi-Fi, mothers’ rooms, well-appointed conference facilities, and more. For more information, see www.uky.edu/gattonstudentcenter.

Individuals with Disabilities: The Gatton Student Center is fully accessible. Elevators, escalators, and pedestrian bridges make using this building and connecting across campus easier for individuals with disabilities. Please see the map in this program for the pedestrian bridge and accessible parking.

Gender Neutral Restrooms: The UK Office of LGBTQ+ Resources is committed to making sure that all members of our community have access to restrooms that are safe and respectful. This list represents the single toilet lockable restrooms on campus that are available for regular use. Gender inclusive restrooms are available in the Gatton Student Center by the bathrooms towards the center of the building in A-130G, A-234, A-332. They are also available in Patterson Office Tower (POT) on floor 2 and M.I. King Library in 1B.

Infants and Children at the Conference: The ASA supports families and welcomes children! In order to support infant feeding on demand, including breast and bottle-feeding, mothers’ rooms are available in the Gatton Student Center in rooms A-130F (Level 1); A-211 (Level 2); and A-320 (Level 3). The rooms are unlocked unless they are in use. No reservations are necessary.

Conference Highlights

Opening Ceremonies. The Opening Ceremonies will welcome ASA attendees to Lexington, Kentucky and kick off the conference with a range of voices addressing the conference theme, “Appalachian Understories.” The speakers include Venus Evans from the Kentucky Native American Heritage Commission, Affrilachian poet Shauna M. Morgan, and author Anne Shelby. This public event will be in the Social Staircase area of the Gatton Student Center, on Thursday, March 12, 2020, 4pm-6pm. Light refreshments provided. Sponsored by the Kentucky Humanities Council and the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Plenary I: Mixed Mesophytic Nation: Pathways to Citizenship. Friday, March 13, 2020, 11:30am-12:45pm in the Gatton Student Center Worsham Cinema. The session focuses on forest communing in four historically and politically distinct situations: Appalachian settler communing in relation to public lands, Appalachian settler communing in the coalfields, Affrilachian communing in the coalfields, and Cherokee participation in management of public forests. The panel makes connections between associated spiritual and cultural values and political implications for stewarding the Mother Forest. Speakers include Tommy Cabe, Forest Resource Specialist, Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians; Ruby Daniels, Incubator Farmer, Sprouting Farms; and Mary Hufford, Associate Director, Livelihoods Knowledge Exchange Network. Panel Chair: Kathryn Newfont, University of Kentucky Associate Professor in History.

Plenary II: Black Appalachian Women: Testimonies, Environmental Justice, Health Disparities, and Historical Reparations. Friday, March 13, 2020, 5:00pm-6:15pm in the Gatton Student Center Worsham Cinema. A panel of Black Appalachian women discuss their work in the academy, film, social justice organizations, literature, and museums. Panels include Dr. Karida Brown, UCLA professor of sociology and author of Gone Home: Race and Roots through Appalachia; Ash-Lee Woodard Henderson, activist and co-director of the Highlander Center; Crystal Wilkinson, University of Kentucky professor and novelist of works including The Birds of Opulence; and Kelley Navies, head of the oral history program at the National Museum of African American History and Culture. Panel Chair: Jillean McCommons, doctoral candidate studying Black Appalachian history at University of Kentucky.

Plenary III: Hope Spots: Stories of Growth and Resilience. Saturday, March 14, 2020, 11:30am-12:45pm in the Gatton Student Center Worsham Cinema. In the spirit of the “understories” concept, this panel addresses the ways people confront stereotypes, myths, marginalization, and violence and meet them with resilience and hope. The panelists will engage with the ways that people feel hopeful and ways actions can nurture hope. The panel will feature Courtney Lewis, Assistant Professor of Anthropology at University of South Carolina - Columbia and author of Sovereign Entrepreneurs: Cherokee Small-Business Owners and the Making of Economic Sovereignty. Speakers will also include Alexander Gibson, Executive Director of Appalshop; Wayne Riley, Founder and Director of the Laurel County African American Heritage Center; Betsy Taylor, Executive Director of the Livelihoods Knowledge Exchange Network; Kathryn Engle, UK Appalachian Center; Christopher Barton, Green Forests Work; Nina McCoy, Martin County Concerned Citizens; Alyssa Dyer, Grace Moses, and Madison Mooney. Panel Chair: Anna Biller, law student at University of Kentucky.

Plenary IV: Health and Healing: What’s Hurting Us and Understories of Recuperation. Saturday, March 14, 2020, 4:00pm-5:15pm in the Gatton Student Center Worsham Cinema. The plenary explores barriers to health and adequate health care in Appalachia, as well as perspectives of healers who operate outside of clinical settings. Panelists include Keisa Fallin-Bennet, University of Kentucky; Joy Gritton, Morehead State University; Danielle King, Hazard Community & Technical College; Chef Ouita Michel, and F. Douglas Scutchfield, University of Kentucky. Panel Chair: Lesly-Marie Buer, Choice Health Network Harm Reduction.

Cornbread & Tortillas: Saturday, March 14, 2020, 7:30pm-9:00pm, UK’s Memorial Hall. Join us for a performance by Cornbread & Tortillas, a collective of Appalachian and Latino musicians. The Cornbread & Tortillas show is derived from the life stories of the artists involved, whose cultural heritages span from Appalachia to Nicaragua, Mexico, Guatemala, Greece, and Ecuador. After the performance, come to UK’s Appalachian Center, 624 Maxwelton Ct., across the street from Memorial Hall, for a reception featuring cornbread and tortillas!

Closing Ceremonies. Speakers include Affrilachian poet Frank X Walker and artist/author George Ella Lyon. On Sunday, March 15, 2020, beginning at 11:30am in the Social Staircase area of the Gatton Student Center. Ticketed lunch can be picked up in the ballroom. Sponsored by University Press of Kentucky.

FIELD TRIPS

Please be at the designated meeting site no later than the listed start time. All field trips depart from the Gatton Student Center, 160 Avenue of Champions, Lexington, Kentucky. See campus Map. Please check the ASA website for updates prior to the conference.

Landscapes of Appalachian Kentucky
When: 7:30am-4:30pm, Thursday, March 12, 2020 Where: University of Kentucky’s Robinson Forest and Surrounding Surface Mines
Cost: Free (food and transportation provided by Green Forests Work)
Number of Participants: 25
Contact: Chris Barton, barton@uky.edu
Robinson Forest is a 14,778 acre teaching, research and extension experimental forest located in southeastern Kentucky that is owned and managed by the University of Kentucky. The forest sits within the rugged eastern section of the Cumberland Plateau, and its landscape consists of long, rectilinear side slopes cut into a horizontally-bedded substrate of sandstone, shale, siltstone and coal. The vegetation is typical of the mixed mesophytic forest region, the most diverse forest region found in temperate North America, and ranges from xeric oak-pine dominated stands to rich mesic cove hardwoods. The University of Kentucky acquired Robinson Forest in 1923 after extensive logging. As such, the majority of the Forest is comprised of 90 plus-year old second growth. However, during the early to mid-1990s, a portion of Robinson Forest (about 1,500 acres) was surface mined for coal and the landscape was highly altered. Active research has been conducted at Robinson Forest with focus on five general areas of study: 1) restoration research; 2) long-term hydrology and water quality monitoring; 3) environmental gradient research; 4) large-scale manipulative studies; and 5) wildlife biology, including elk, black bear, bats, fish, and salamanders. On this tour, we will begin with a visit to the Robinson Forest surface mine and be introduced to several on-going research projects including elk reintroduction, mine land reforestation, and species change due to climate change. We will perform a “Blessing of the Chestnut Tree” ceremony at the mine and plant a few American chestnut trees before we depart for the Robinson Forest Camp for lunch. After lunch we will tour the main block of the forest and discuss how land-use activities influence water, vegetation and wildlife resources. A short hike (about 1-mile) through the forest will end the tour (weather permitting). Boots and rain jackets are recommended. Pre-registration is required. Register here: https://landscapesofappalachiakentucky.eventbrite.com.

Rural Health Practitioners Training at St. Claire HealthCare, Morehead, Kentucky.
When: 8:30am-3:30pm, Thursday, March 12, 2020
Where: St. Claire HealthCare, Morehead, KY
Cost: $10 (cash only; pay the day of the tour)
Number of Participants: 25
Contact: Lesly-Marie Buer, leslymarie.buer@gmail.com

Visit St. Claire HealthCare for a rural health practitioners training. Students at all levels, clinicians, researchers, and those interested in rural healthcare are welcome to attend. The trip includes a lunch, tour, and panel session. Lunch and panel are sponsored by Morehead State University. Please bring $10 cash for transportation costs. Pre-registration required. Register here: https://ruralhealthtraining.eventbrite.com.

Woods and Whiskey: White Oak and the Kentucky Bourbon Industry
When: 1:00pm-5:00pm, Thursday, March 12, 2020
Where: Buffalo Trace Distillery
Cost: $10 (cash only; pay the day of the tour)
Number of Participants: 40
Contact: Chris Barton, barton@uky.edu

White oak is a keystone species of Kentucky forests. It not only provides food and habitat for wildlife, but it also provides economic benefits to rural economies through a wide variety of important and growing industries including furniture, flooring, and cabinetry. In addition, white oak is exclusively used for barrels in the booming bourbon industry. In this tour we will discuss the status of white oak in eastern US forests and learn about the White Oak Initiative. We will visit the historic Buffalo Trace distillery in Frankfort, KY and receive a tour that will provide a look into the behind-the-scenes work that goes into crafting bourbon and follow the white oak barrel during its journey throughout the distillery (https://www.buffalotracedistillery.com/visit-us/our-tours). We will end the tour with a tasting of the distillery’s products. There will be considerable walking so comfortable shoes and clothing are recommended. Pre-registration required. Please bring $10 cash for transportation costs. Register here: https://woodsandwhiskey.eventbrite.com.

Gallery Tour
When: 1:00pm-3:30pm, Thursday, March 12, 2020
Where: Around Lexington
Cost: $10 (cash only; pay the day of the tour)
Number of participants: 20
Contact: Philis Alvic, philis@philisalvic.info

This tour is organized to highlight some artwork being shown in Lexington and on the University of Kentucky campus. In several of the locations there will be speakers, either the artists themselves or curators. Participants will be transported to and from the downtown area, and will finish with the Opening Ceremonies of the Appalachian Studies Conference. There will be a cost to cover the bus fee. Philis Alvic will lead the tour. Pre-registration is required. Please bring $10 cash for transportation cost. Register here: https://lexgellerytour.eventbrite.com.

SPECIAL EVENTS
Appalachian Forum, presented by the UK Appalachian Center, UK Department of Sociology, and the Inclusive Excellence Student Program Grant, Karida Brown, “The Surprise of Appalachia.”

Karida Brown is Assistant Professor in the Department of Sociology at UCLA. She earned her PhD in Sociology from Brown University in 2016, and an MPA in Government Administration from the University of Pennsylvania in 2011. Her research focuses on the relationship between race, social transformations, and communal memory. Her book, Gone Home: Race and Roots through Appalachia (UNC Press), reconstructs the life histories of a cohort of African Americans who migrated throughout the Appalachian region during the African American Great Migration. Please join us on Thursday, March 12, 2020 at 11:00am. Worsham Cinema, Gatton Student Center. Note: This is a pre-conference event.
Cooking Class with Chef AuCo Lai. Chef AuCo Lai’s culinary work places a heavy emphasis on their Vietnamese heritage and love of their found home in central Appalachia. Through their fledgling company, Amity Foodworks, AuCo is working to generate dialogues about food insecurity, and the radical activism being done to tackle it in their communities, through inclusive and representational community meals. In 2018, they were selected for the LEE Foundation - Women Chefs of Kentucky Initiative, and were the only recipient based outside of a major city, in rural Appalachia. AuCo currently focus their work on broader foodways development, primarily on food rescue and distribution resources, and building stronger connections between local farmers and consumers. Join chef AuCo Lai for a cooking class on Thursday, March 12, 2020, 12:00pm-2:00pm at The Food Connection @ UK, 440 Hilltop Avenue. Pre-registration required. Costs $25. Register here: https://www3.ca.uky.edu/foodconnection/cooking-with-auco-lai/new.php.

Ask-A-Pro. On Thursday, March 12, 2020, 2:30pm-3:45pm, Gatton Student Center 330AB, professionals and community organizers who work within the Appalachian region have been invited by the UK Graduate Appalachian Research Community and will be available for questions. Doug Boyd of the UK Louie B. Nunn Center for Oral History and Jennifer Cramer of the UK Department of Linguistics are among the invited participants.

A Reading and Conversation with Madeline ffitch, sponsored by the UK Department of English. Madeline ffitch writes and organizes in Appalachian Ohio. She was a founding member of the punk theater company, The Missoula Oblongata, and is the author of the story collection, Valparaiso, Round the Horn. Madeline has been awarded residencies at Yaddo and at the MacDowell Colony. She is the author of Stay and Fight from Farrar, Straus and Giroux. Her reading will be on Thursday, March 12, 2020, at 7:00pm in the Gatton Student Center Worsham Cinema.

Campus Tree Tour, “Walk with a Doc.” Join us on a walk with experts from UK Forestry Extension as well as UK Integrative Medicine and Health. We will walk through campus and talk about tree health and benefits. We will also meditate and learn about eastern medicine context. Meet outside of White Hall Classroom Building, Friday, March 13, 2020 at 9am. We should return by 9:45am.

The Kentucky Women Fiddlers Project. Fiddler Karen Jones has been for over 40 years a member of the legendary “All-Female” old-time band, The Reel World String Band, which inspired and paved the way for subsequent generations of women playing old time music here in Kentucky and beyond. She has also used her music as an activist protesting mountaintop removal and documenting the lives and music of women in coal country through her compilation album on Rounder Records, They’ll Never Keep Us Down: Women’s Coal Mining Songs. In 2018, she received a small grant from the Kentucky Foundation for Women to record contemporary women fiddlers of central Kentucky, which she did in September 2018 and March 2019 at UK’s John Jacob Niles Center for American Music. For the ASA conference, Ms. Jones will return to the Niles Center with several of the women she recorded to play and converse about the opportunities and challenges of being a female fiddler in Kentucky. Scheduled for Friday, March 13, 2020, 1:00pm-1:45pm in the Niles Gallery. Bring your own bag lunch and eat in the lobby.

Pine Mountain Sessions: A Celebration of the Kentucky Natural Lands Trust. In a few recording sessions scattered over 2017 and 2018, musicians and writers from all across Kentucky gathered on the slopes of Pine Mountain in Harlan County in a near-century-old chapel to make an album to benefit Kentucky Natural Lands Trust (KNLT) and Pine Mountain Settlement School. KNLT is a nationally accredited nonprofit that works to protect, connect and restore wildlands that protect biodiversity within climate resilient landscapes in ways that benefit local communities. The flagship project is the Pine Mountain Wildlands Corridor, the largest landscape level project ever undertaken in the Commonwealth. The Pine Mountain Sessions were collected by recording artist Daniel Martin Moore and released on Ol Kentuck Recordings in 2019. This gathering offers performances by artists featured on the LP, as well as a public conversation between Daniel Martin Moore and Greg Abernathy, executive director of KNLT. Friday, March 13, 2020, in the Niles Gallery at 2pm.

Conversations with Gurney, Featuring Alessandro Portelli, with Jane Jensen. Friday, March 13, 2020, at 3:30pm-4:45pm in the Great Hall, 2nd floor of the Special Collections Research Center in M.I. King Library.

Appalachian Teaching Project (ATP) meeting. Saturday March 14, 10am-11:15am, in Gatton Student Center 350C.

Campus Tree Tour, Appalachian Trees and Identification Walk. Join us on a walk with experts from UK Forestry Extension to identify many of the Appalachian tree species on campus. We plan to start the walk at the Gatton Student Center doors by the food court, Saturday March 14, 2:30 pm. We should return by 3:15pm.

The Square Dance will follow the fourth plenary, Saturday, March 14, 2020, from 5:30pm-7:30pm with The High Tops and caller Phil Jamison. Light Appalachian-themed refreshments will be available. Join us at the Niles Gallery, located off the lobby of the Lucille Caudill Little Fine Arts Library.
Cornbread & Tortillas Concert. Cornbread & Tortillas is a collective of Appalachian and Latino artists whose mission is to build community by sharing art, music, dance, and cultural heritage. Cornbread & Tortillas es un colectivo de artistas Apalaches y latinx cuya misión es construir comunidad por compartiendo arte, música, baile, y herencia cultural. Through outreach events, educational shows, workshops, and performances we celebrate our similarities and differences to create unity in a diverse world. The centerpiece of our work together is the CORNBREAD & TORTILLAS theatrical show, a dynamic “bilingual folk opera" that features stories, music, and dancing. Audiences will journey from the Appalachian region of eastern Kentucky to Mexico, Nicaragua, Ecuador, and beyond, exploring connections and celebrating our shared human experience all the while! The Cornbread & Tortillas show is derived from the life stories of the artists involved, whose cultural heritages span from Appalachia to Nicaragua, Mexico, Guatemala, Greece, and Ecuador. It contains music, dance and stories from throughout the Americas with central themes of family, identity, work, love and art. You will see lots of instruments including banjo, fiddle, mandolin, Andean flutes, charango, congas, and cajón, as well as mountain-style flatfooting and percussive Ballet Folklórico styles from Mexico and colorful traditional clothing. Weaving it all together is a narrative that illuminates the stories told through song and dance, highlighting our similarities and differences as human beings and building cultural bridges for our changing nation. Cornbread & Tortillas will be performing Saturday, March 14, 2020 at University of Kentucky's Memorial Hall at 7:30pm.

Cornbread & Tortillas Post-Show Reception. The UK Appalachian Center will host a gathering after the Cornbread & Tortillas performance on Saturday, March 14, 2020, 9:00pm-10:00pm, at the Appalachian Center on 624 Maxwellton Court. Refreshments will be provided.

Drag Show. Paired with the Reigning Monarchs of the Imperial Court of Kentucky, this year’s FABULOUS off-site drag show will be Saturday, March 14, 2020 at 9pm at Crossings Lexington (117 N Limestone Lexington, KY 40507). All the proceeds from the benefit will go to Arbor Youth Services that provides safe housing for at-risk youth. Please come join us for a night of fun featuring local talent to benefit this worthy cause. The show is for 21 and over.

Sacred Harp Sing. One Sunday each month a group of people gather at UK’s Niles Gallery to sing from the Sacred Harp and other shape note hymnals. This month, they are inviting ASA conference attendees to join them for two hours of participatory music making. If you are a veteran shape note singer, or just someone who loves to sing and has always wanted to try it, this is a wonderful opportunity to experience the joy and power of this venerable tradition. A limited number of Sacred Harp hymnals will be available to borrow. On Sunday, March 15, 2020, 9:00am-11:00am at the Niles Gallery.

OPPORTUNITIES TO GATHER

Global Mountain Exchange Lunch. Come and join us for a cultural exchange over lunch in Patterson Hall 225, Thursday, March 12, 2020, 12:30pm. We will follow global Appalachian food connections, exchange music from around mountain regions, and talk about shared interests and issues. Pre-registration is required. Please RSVP to Jane Marsh at the UK Appalachian Center at Jane.Marsh@uky.edu; open until spaces filled. Note: This is a pre-conference event.

Kentucky Historical Society Reception. Celebrate the Special Issue of The Register at https://www.visitlex.com/, Lexington Visitors Center, 215 West Main Street on Thursday, March 12, 2020, 6:30pm-7:30pm.

Queer Caucus and Camp Happy Appalachee, funded by the UK Appalachian Center, will have a room for meeting and socializing throughout the conference in the Gatton Student Center, the Dinkle-Mas Suite, Office of LGBTQ+ Resources, Gatton Student Center, Room 250. This informal gathering welcomes all LGBTQ-identifying folks and allies in an inclusive, comfortable, and private environment. They will hold a lunch on Friday, March 13, 2020, 12:50pm-1:45pm in the Dinkle-Mas Suite, Office of LGBTQ+ Resources, Gatton Student Center, 250.

Reception for “Consuming Appalachia: Voices, Objects, and Texts” Exhibit. Friday, March 13, 2020, 1:15pm-2:00pm, in the Great Hall, 2nd floor of the Special Collections Research Center in M.I. King Library.

Y’ALL Meet and Eat event will be on Saturday, March 14, 2020, at 5:30pm-6:30pm in the Cats Den.

Black Appalachia Gathering: Black in Appalachia Social. Gather with community activists, artists, scholars, elders, and young leaders working on aspects of black life and culture in Appalachia. Black in Appalachia will host a rolling screening of the one (1) hour documentary on the Eastern Kentucky Social Club (EKSC). On the 50th anniversary of the EKSC, this film chronicles the establishment of coal towns and the movement of black families in and through the region, culminating in the creation of, perhaps the longest running black organization dedicated to purely social purposes. The film will be available to view throughout the day, starting at the top of each hour. This project also includes an exhibition by Jabari Guthrie of modern images from eastern Kentucky’s black communities. The gathering space will be open throughout the day on Saturday, March 14, 2020, in the Gatton Student Center, Room 330AB.
Artist talk and Reception with Dustin Hall at the UK Food Connection. Dustin Hall is a self-taught artist living in Fleming-Neon, Kentucky. Dustin's work began with mixed media on paper, employing his old drag queen makeup and pen and ink, and has expanded over the past two and a half years. Hall's paintings on view at The Food Connection depict scenes from the artist's life in Appalachia. The self-described 'Queer, Fat, and Appalachian,' artist mines his personal history and his interest in popular culture to write narratives to accompany the paintings that are frequently comedic while simultaneously engaging with the sometimes difficult issues facing the place where he grew up and continues to reside. Join us at The Food Connection @ UK, 440 Hilltop Avenue, on Saturday 2:30pm-3:45pm, March 14, 2020, to meet the artist and view the exhibition. Refreshments will be provided.

The Publishers’ Reception and book signing will follow the fourth plenary, Saturday, March 14, 2020, from 5:30pm-6:30pm in the Gatton Student Center Ballrooms. Come meet authors of recent Appalachian-related books. Refreshments and a cash bar will be available.

The Health Mixer, funded by the Journal of Appalachian Health, will follow the fourth plenary, Saturday, March 14, 2020, from 5:30pm-6:30pm in the Gatton Student Center Ballrooms pre-function area, adjacent to the Ballrooms. This is a space for researchers, community health workers, providers, and others interested in health to meet and discuss their work and visions for the future of a healthy Appalachia. Refreshments and a cash bar will be available.

EXHIBITS

“Consuming Appalachia: Voices, Objects, and Texts” Exhibit. Material culture—the “things” of everyday life that shape us as we shape them— influences the way we view and talk about people and regions. Things can be used to elevate and celebrate, but they can also be used to denigrate. Journalists, writers, politicians, scholars, and reality television hosts, among others, have pointed to material culture as tangible evidence that Appalachia is “a region apart,” historically lagging in opposition to the rest of progressive America. This exhibit uses archaeological artifacts and archival images to explore how home-produced and consumer goods, seemingly mundane household objects, were used by eastern Kentucky’s coalfield residents during the Industrial Age of the early twentieth century. People used household things in dynamic, agentive ways, and the way we consume Appalachian representations can be transformed by considering the relationships entangled in their use and discard. Exhibit is open Monday-Friday from 9:00am-5:00pm in the Great Hall, 2nd floor of the Special Collections Research Center in M.I. King Library.

Kentucky Craft Luminaries Exhibit. This exhibit has crafts from artists who have distinction in their fields. There is a photo and biography of each artist, along with their piece. Lexington Public Library Gallery, 140 E. Main Street.

Pam Miller Downtown Arts Center, 141 E. Main Street, Lexington, Kentucky 40507. In City Gallery, there will be a photography exhibit curated by local architect and photographer, Tom Fielder. In Community Gallery, there will be an exhibit of the work of Lennon Michalski featuring the children’s book he wrote and illustrated.

Living Arts & Science Center, Atrium Gallery, 362 N. Martin Luther King Blvd., Lexington, Kentucky, 40508. The Horse, a juried exhibition and works of the Cricket Press.

UK Art Museum, 405 Rose Street, Lexington, Kentucky. There will be a show of work by Mike Goodlet and Hunter Stamps, and Redressing the Sixties, an installation by Susan E. King. There is also a permanent exhibition in the museum.

William T. Young Library Wade Hall Quilt Collection. More than one hundred quilts were donated to the University of Kentucky’s William T. Young Library and 64 currently are hanging on the interior walls of the fifth floor. This collection was prepared for hanging by Helen Thompson, a Lexington quilt appraiser consultant.

KNLT is a nationally accredited nonprofit that works to protect, connect and restore wildlands that protect biodiversity within climate resilient landscapes in ways that benefit local communities. The flagship project is the Pine Mountain Wildlands Corridor, the largest landscape level project ever undertaken in the Commonwealth. The Pine Mountain Sessions were collected by recording artist Daniel Martin Moore and released on Ol Kentuck Recordings in 2019. This gathering offers performances by artists featured on the LP, as well as a public conversation between Daniel Martin Moore and Greg Abernathy, Executive Director of KNLT.

PERFORMANCE: Rachel Grimes’ The Way Forth

Convener: Catharine Axley

This presentation will feature Kentuckian composer Rachel Grimes, lecturing about and performing themes from her new work The Way Forth. Grimes describes this work as “Inspired by a treasure-trove of family documents, photos, and letters spanning several generations, I began in 2016 to research some of the more vexing questions that came to the surface about these people, places, and events. Fueled by intuition, travel to visit family, photographing, and filming present day rural Kentucky life, the research led to many more questions: What is missing? What is not being said here?... Further examination formed a framework for trying to reconcile Kentucky’s history and how it relates to the westward expansion and settlement of the United States and ultimately how an era of domination, denial, and pain is reflected in the complex culture of today.” The presentation will also feature excerpts from the accompanying documentary, and remarks by the filmmaker, UK faculty member Catharine Axley.

Journal of Appalachian Studies Submissions

The Journal of Appalachian Studies is a refereed, multidisciplinary publication, which seeks to provide a written forum for quality scholarship on Appalachian history, culture, and society. We are interested in articles based on original empirical research, including applied research, as well as literary criticism and reflections on conceptual, theoretical, and methodological issues in Appalachian studies. Given the Journal's broad readership, we encourage consideration of the wider implications of each study. Submissions must be written in a style that can be understood by non-specialists. We will consider rigorous scholarship from scholars, teachers, activists, and others whose work focuses on the Appalachian region.
The current editor invites scholarship, which compares the Appalachian region to other regions in the world and places the region in a critical, global context. All submissions are expected to demonstrate an understanding of relevant Appalachian studies literature.

Articles should be submitted electronically to the JAS online manuscript submission portal managed by the University of Illinois Press. This secure, personalized resource will allow you to track your manuscript through each step of the review and acceptance process. Please go to http://ojs.press.illinois.edu/index.php/jas/login to set up your personal account and upload your submission.

Conference Digital Collection
Conference participants are invited to submit their papers, presentations, videos, images, and posters to the ASA 2020 conference digital collection hosted by Marshall Digital Scholar (MDS) by emailing content to Gretchen Beach, MDS Administrator, beachgr@marshall.edu. MDS serves to collect, preserve, and provide global access to scholarly and creative work. Please contact Gretchen Beach for additional information.

Coal. A Poetry Anthology
Chris Green, Editor

The poems in this collection are true—all of them. They come to us from the deep hollows and coal towns and rivers and the front porches and pool halls and coal mines in authentic and lyrical voices that will not go away.

Jack Spadaro

This is an important, beautiful book, and I can't imagine how American literature has gone so long without it.

Silas House

Raft Tide and Railroad
Edwina Pendarvis

Raft Tide and Railroad is a rich collage of history memories, and stories of an Appalachian family's experiences in Virginia, Kentucky and West Virginia during the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. Including that of a horse-breeding coal-baron uncle.

David C. Duke, author of Writers and Miners.

Activism and Imagery in America

Her retelling of a family's history fashions a patchwork of voices, letters, tales, and a life-altering tragedy—the murder of her maternal grandmother—and the resilience of her relatives, especially Donald Johnson, who was only eleven years old when his mother was killed in 1945.

Laura Treacy Bentley, author of Lake Effect

Azrael on the Mountain
Victor M. Depta

Azrael on the Mountain is a bold and angry confrontation. In some 40 dramatic monologues (and 8 other framing poems), Depta recounts how people from a variety of perspectives cope with the consequences of mountaintop removal.

WriteBrain Films invites you on an intimate journey inside the lives of a four-generation coal mining family. Bonecrusher tells the story of Lucas Chaffin, a young coal miner trying to live up to the legend of his dad and what he believes is a family duty. But his father Luther, still known in the mines as "Bonecrusher," is withered and sick with cancer at just 61. He's given his life to the dust, and he wants his son to get out of the mines before it's too late.

Homesteaders in the Age of Capitalism
JASON G. STRANGE
Paper $22.95; E-book

This title captures the hippies-versus-hicks conflict that divides, and in some ways defines, modern-day homesteaders. It also reveals that back-to-the-landers, though they may seek lives off the grid, remain connected to the most pressing questions confronting the United States today.

“Strange does a strong job of providing the historical context for homesteading and the reasons why it is so significant today. But even more important are his willingness to ground the book in the words and deeds of the homesteaders themselves and his own history with homesteading, and to go beyond a historical description to explore the role of class and capitalism in explaining the homesteaders’ differences.”

“The dialogue, with its distinct Appalachian dialect, charges Gipe’s illustrated story of a tight-knit community in coal country, in which people struggle to make ends meet, raise families, maintain friendships, and survive the opioid epidemic. The many cartoons add emotional complexity to the evocative language and terrific character development.”

—Booklist

“Proudfoot is a talented wordsmith, and her lyrical writing is the highlight of her debut novel. She details the landscape of the mountains and dirt roads with tenderness and detail, and creates complex, rich characters.”

—Booklist

“Ailing in Place provides a timely new resource for Appalachian health reference, particularly for those interested in the intersection of environmental health and Appalachian studies.”

—F. Douglas Scutchfield, MD

“These are the poems we need—their surprise, their shine, their fearlessness, their joy, their brazen and unrepetant love of women the world has tried (and failed) to render invisible. If ever there was an example of the political and the personal merging with pure fearlessness and urgency, it’s happening in this book by Misty Skaggs. Give yourself over to them. You’ll be grateful you did.”

—Chanel Dubofsky, journalist & activist

“Nothing else besides food nourishes us as profoundly as stories. Here we have a celebration of both, presented in an original, beautiful, and delicious manner. This book fairly bursts with a bounty of words—and wonderful illustrations—that manage to articulate just why food is so important in the way it connects and sustains us. I didn’t realize how much Appalachian Literature needed a book like this until I sat down and devoured the whole thing.”

—Silas House, author of Southernmost
the similarities between then and now are astonishing: divisive politics, racial strife, economic uncertainty, environmental alarm.

All This Marvelous Potential meticulously retraces Robert Kennedy’s tour of eastern Kentucky, visiting the places he visited and meeting with the people he met with. Author Matthew Algeo explains how and why the region has changed since Robert Kennedy toured the area in 1968; how and why it hasn’t; and why it matters—immensely—for the rest of the country.

“Extensively researched, this novel rescues neglected history from a few dry texts and elevates it to the level of drama. Anthony uses multiple voices, black and white, that cut across the social spectrum to chronicle the painful and costly rise of African Americans towards full citizenship during the Progressive Era.” ~Richard Taylor, a former poet laureate of Kentucky

“P. Shaun Neal's novel Mama's Song is lyrical and bracing, as rich as the dark soil that nurtures the tobacco crop Colby must somehow bring in after his father's death. Neal conjures a large cast of fully-realized characters, damaged and humane and true to life, set down in a time and place where kinship and a jagged faith in the Lord and in the next harvest mean everything. Beautifully written and highly recommended.” ~David T. Miller

256 pgs. $18

Inspired by incidents during the 1922 coal strike in Pennsylvania, Dressick spent months researching the rhythms of early coal town life. Interviewing retired miners, their wives and widows, he immersed himself in family and the coal heritage materials, many housed at the Indiana University of Pennsylvania. Dressick is described by Frederick Barthelme as “an artist to be reckoned with”

A WRITER WRITES. AND WORKS. AND HAS A FAMILY.

You’re committed to your writing—but how to make room for it? At Spalding University’s School of Creative and Professional Writing, we’re making top-tier graduate writing education more accessible. Alongside our low-residency creative writing MFA—one of the country’s oldest and best-regarded—we’ve created a new 15-credit Graduate Certificate in Writing and 35-credit Master of Arts in Writing with creative and professional tracks. The low-residency model shows you how to build writing into your daily life. All students work with our distinguished MFA faculty. Certificate and MAW students can matriculate into the MFA, earning two degrees for about the cost of one.

You have dreams. We can help you get there. Let us help you change your world.

Creative Writing

Situated in historic Lexington and surrounded by the awesomeness of thoroughbred horse farms and bourbon distilleries, the University enjoys a rich literary heritage dating back to 1947, when Pulitzer Prize-winning novelist A.B. Guthrie first offered courses in fiction. Graduates of the English Department include Gurney Norman, Frank X Walker, Bobbie Ann Mason, Rebecca Gayle Howell, Wendell Berry, Kayla Rae Whitaker, Maurice Manning, Bianca Spriggs, Patrick O'Keefe, Holly Goddard Jones, and James Baker Hall. The MFA Program in Creative Writing builds upon that rich history by offering students access to a diverse faculty in fiction, poetry, and creative non-fiction.

Moses on the Mount
- DANE RITTER, second-year poet

“...AND MOSES ROSE UP EARLY IN THE MORNING, AND WENT UP INTO MOUNT SINAI, AS THE LORD HAD COMMANDED HIM, AND TOOK IN HIS HAND THE TWO TABLES OF STONE.” - EXODUS 34:4 KJV

After 40 days and 41 nights working the graveyard shift, a faithful Moses exited the ravaged mountainside, exploding forth like Blackjewel’s latest coal seam. He could kiss and praise the winding trail of Kingdom Come Parkway, but instead left his Goodyear tires to embrace the blacktop. Thou shalt not have other gods before Me. After dinner -- or was it breakfast? How long since his last sit-down supper? -- Moses walked the perimeter of his cliffside home, plucking discarded Mountain Dew cans from brush and blade alike.

Thou shalt honor thy mother. Earth was dying, he would not deny

Her (thou shalt not lie). His livelihood was desecrating Her beauty, but papa enforced in him the loving touch of the mine-- generations had reaped benefits sown by coal. Papa, his papa,

& his papa had cut their teeth in the depths, 5,945 feet high1,

& he was taught Thou shalt honor thy father, too.

He worked hard in the baking sun to replace the trees

he extinguishes for firewood, Thou shalt not kill, thou shalt not steal. Retiring inside, all he wanted was to drown the thirst in his soul, in his mouth, but found instead the orange, putrid sight of acid drainage trickling from the faucet. Moses laughed, remembering the rules of the mountain: Thou shalt not want.
